

PeopleVox warehouse management systems put you in absolute control of stock, assets and raw materials, transforming efficiency and profitability and improving your customer experience.

Working with barcode technology, our flexible web-based warehouse management systems record and track every item from the moment it enters your premises to the moment it leaves.

Now you, your warehouse staff and even your customers can see real-time data about stocking levels, locations and returns, without a single piece of paper in sight.

The many benefits of PeopleVox warehouse & inventory management systems:

- Our web-based stock control software can be hosted on your servers, or by PeopleVox, and is accessed using a standard web-browser. No special programmes are required.
- You can pay monthly with no long-term commitment, or buy the software.
- Our flexible system can be customised to meet your precise requirements.
- Our inventory software for internet retailers makes reconciling web orders, managing accurate picking and handling returns a paperless, hassle free process.
- We can integrate our warehouse management systems with customer orders, works orders, shipping, accountancy, management and website content management systems, providing instant real-time data and reports 24/7, anywhere in the world.

Many of our clients enjoy a return on investment in less than six months. Implementation takes days, not months.

We can provide barcode scanners, printers and other hardware, and full inventory system support.
